

Transkrypcje nagrań

Zad. 4 (mężczyzna, twórca gry)

Hello everyone, this is Mark Davis, one of the developers of the game. I'm recording this message to inform our players about an important issue connected with the latest update and data security.

During the first hours after the update, our AI system analysed not only the gameplay itself but also certain patterns of user behaviour, such as playing time and in-game choices.

Although no personal data was shared with external companies, some user information was stored for a longer period than originally planned. We understand that this situation may have caused concern among players.

To stay safe, we strongly recommend changing your password and checking the privacy settings in your account. This will help you control what information the game application can access.

Finally, we would like to remind everyone that while artificial intelligence can improve the gaming experience, it must always be used responsibly and with respect for users' data.